Laughter at 'Hereafter'

LETTERMAN's longtime producer Vinnie Favale has written a musical comedy. "Hereafter Musical" flashes back as three women, communing with departed loved ones, speak to the spirits. Previewing Saturdays, opening Oct. 25 at B'way & 50th's Snapple Theater, which is the equivalent of an off B'way version of Airbnb.

"A tear-jerker that leaves you happy and hopeful," he says.

"At intermission, I put out Kleenex. Joan Rivers loved psychics and the spirit world, and was coming opening night. Her friend's an investor."

Even if this is moving to Broadway, Vinnie Favale is not moving. He stays to work on CBS' new Colbert show.
